AT SCOTLAND HEALTH CARE, THIS IS HOW GOOD NEIGHBORS CARE

Our small community values come with great expectations—that people will do what they say and look out for each other.

At Scotland Health Care, we make safety and investing in the latest technology our top priority so you have access to closer care that's better by far. That is our commitment to you and what helped us earn recognition as one of America's Top 49 safest hospitals. As the only hospital in North Carolina to achieve that distinction, we're bringing it home to you. For more information, call 910.291.7000 or visit ScotlandHealth.org.

Dear Friends of the Arts,

On behalf of The University of North Carolina at Pembroke, I am pleased to welcome you to the Givens Performing Arts Center's 2017-18 season. We are delighted to offer some of the nation's finest and most diverse arts and entertainment to our region. Dr. James Bass and our Givens staff have selected a variety of performances that offer something for everyone, including dazzling musicals, well-known concert performers and even an illusionist and escape artist!

As always, this season at the GPAC exemplifies UNC Pembroke's ongoing commitment to serving southeastern North Carolina. In addition to providing an excellent education to nearly 6,300 undergraduate and graduate students, we embrace our role as a source of cultural enrichment — enhancing the quality of life for people throughout our region.

I want to thank our patrons, our sponsors, and our supporters for your commitment to the arts at the university. Rebecca and I hope you enjoy tonight's performance, and we look forward to seeing you throughout the season at the Givens Performing Arts Center.

Sincerely,

Dr. Robin G. Cummings
Chancellor
